

LESSONS IN PRICES

R. M. M'GEE SAYS UNEXPECTED JUMPS IN DRY GOODS VALUES KILL RETAIL PROFITS

"Prices of dry goods are not going to be reduced in the immediate future," said R. M. McGee, 580 West Broadway, "there is scarcely an article in the way of dry goods for common consumption that has not been advanced since the war began. Some of these goods have experienced several advances during that period and are likely to experience more."

"For instance I bought blankets last spring for fall delivery at a reasonable price and marked them at a reasonable profit. They were not long in finding a market. When they were all sold I made inquiry and found that the same grade of blankets had advanced so far that when I bought my new supply my old profits were wiped out by the advance. That is one of the troubles in the dry goods business at present. No one can calculate what he may have to pay on the morrow for goods that today he is quoted a price that is attractive."

"These advances come suddenly. The advance on the blankets of which I spoke was 33 1-3 per cent. So uncertain is the outlook that, as in the case of various grades of print paper, it is becoming difficult to fix prices ahead."

"It is practically certain that everything in the dry goods line is going to go up. Underwear, for instance, is uncertain in price all the time and there are likely to be advances in that particular class of goods before the season is over."

"Everything in the cotton line has advanced. This is due directly to the war. At one time just when the war had begun it looked as though American cotton would be so cheap that the cotton growers would be ruined. Then the British government stepped in and bought up the cotton. This advanced the price so far that instead of being ruined the cotton growers are more prosperous than they have ever been. The cotton is used for making dynamite and sooner than run the risk of its falling into the German's hands or of having trouble with the United States by declaring it contraband of war, the British government undertook to purchase the crop."

"Today I do not know what the price of cotton may be. Wholesalers and retailers are not naming any prices until they are compelled to do so."

"Where the retailer suffers is in not knowing when the price is to go up and in waiting until the last moment to see if there is to be a rise. There are so many complaints concerning the advancing prices that all merchants are anxious to keep down prices as long as possible. In this way, they are apt to let the psychological moment pass and to hang on until the next advance wipes out all their profits."

"In the matter of shoes, which are retailed by almost every dry goods house in the country, prices are advancing and it is going to be difficult to get a shoe that is substantially the same as those we are now selling and yet sell them at the same price. The quality of the shoe is still to be had but at an advanced rate."

"Fortunately I have a large stock of some articles such as outing flannels and will be able to sell them without any advance until we see what next spring may bring forth. I fear very much that if the war does not end now it will drag on for another whole year and that will mean another advance in prices."

CLUB BREAKFAST

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB OPENS SEASON WITH DELIGHTFUL INNOVATION

With Masonic Temple elaborately and beautifully decorated with huge yellow chrysanthemums, golden red and sunflowers in ornamental receptacles, the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club formally opened its club year Tuesday, October 10, with a membership breakfast, an innovation and a decided success. Mrs. C. E. Harlan, chairman of program planned the delightful day, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Meeker, chairman of hospitality and the ladies of her committee as follows: Mrs. E. D. Yard, Mrs. A. S. Chase, Mrs. B. L. Cline, Mrs. H. F. Bertleson, Miss Beulah Layton, Mrs. G. H. Rowen, Mrs. C. B. Guittard, Mrs. John R. White, Mrs. R. P. Poss, Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mrs. J. W. Cousins, Mrs. I. H. Duffee, Mrs. E. C. Frank, and Mrs. C. H. Eudemiller.

Two hundred and fifty plates were laid and a dainty luncheon served. At the luncheon table, the president, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, called upon a number of members who contributed their share to the interest and enjoyment of the hour.

Mrs. Fluellinna Daugherty recited an original poem of welcome which was much enjoyed. Committee chairmen and curators of sections briefly laid before the assemblage their hopes and plans for the year's work with earnestness and enthusiasm. Those who spoke are Mrs. C. E. Harlan, chairman of program; Mrs. A. W. Tower, courtesy chairman; Mrs. John Hunchberger, chairman of local aid; Mrs. W. W. McElroy, chairman of decoration; Mrs. A. L. Weaver, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Daniel Campbell, chairman of ways and means; Mrs. Frederick Baker, chairman of calling committee; Mrs. R. W. Meeker, chairman of hospitality; Mrs. O. O. Clark, custodian of club properties; Mrs. H. Lee Clotworthy, federation secretary; Mrs. Helen Campbell, chairman of parliamentary usage; Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, chairman of philanthropy; Mrs. Frank Grosvenor, juvenile protective association representative; Mrs. George Adams, historian; Mrs. Blake Franklin, general curator; Mrs. William Ramsay, curator of the Literary section; Mrs. E. W. Kinney, curator of the Music section; Mrs. C. M. Turk, curator of the Art and Travel section; Mrs. Menzo Williams, curator of the Shakespeare section and Mrs. E. W. Richardson, curator of the Civics and Political Science section.

Interesting indeed were the impromptu words of greeting of the former presidents of the club. Mrs. Frank G. Taylor, 1904-05, the first president of the club was absent. Mrs. Robert Blackburn, 1905-06 and 1909-10 thanked the club for the honor bestowed upon her last year in making her an honorary member of the club. Mrs. Blackburn contrasted the pioneer days of the club with its broader interests and enlarged scope today. Mrs. Edgar W. Pack, 1906-07, and 1908-09 told of the Tuesday club being in her day called a "cooking club." Under Mrs. Pack's administration the club was federated and incorporated. For the past four years Mrs. Pack has resided in England. Mrs. Pack begged all women as individuals and in groups to work and pray that peace may reign in our beloved United States. Mrs. Martha Morris in her gracious way thanked the club for the conference of honorary membership upon her. Mrs. Mary H. Gridley-Brady, 1910-11 was detained at home through illness. Mrs. A. W. Tower, 1911-12, was a "critic" for the club in its earlier days. Under her administration the first club lot was acquired and partly paid for. Mrs. Raymond Chase, 1912-13 spoke of the love and interest which leadership engenders and the benefit derived by the worker in club service. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, 1913-14, 1914-15 quoted Jane Adams' Call to Service at the National Federation of Women's clubs in Chicago, in which she says among other things: "If the women of America with their widening opportunity and ever broadening experience accept the right quality of leadership they will contribute in a wonderful way to the strength, justice and stability of the republic, as well as to the permanent well being of their own sex."

A short adjournment was followed by the inspiring address of the beloved president of the club, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett.

Miss Ruth Markell, a pupil of Behymer, and a soloist of charming personality, delighted her audience with the following group of songs: Morning Hymn, George Henschel, Indian Summer, Charles Wakefield Cadman.

I., Oct. 11.—Eleven United States destroyers which have been scouring the ocean north, south and east of Nantucket, in search of the missing crew of the British ship Kingstonian, torpedoed by the German submarine U-53, returned last night and reported that there was no trace of the boats. The destroyers had made their report by wireless and had been ordered to return. All hope that any of the crew have been saved is given up.

He said "this war cannot end up in a patched-up, dishonoring compromise, masquerading under the name of peace." When the premier concluded his address the house of commons was stirred to its inmost heart and broke forth into a volume of cheering that amounted to an ovation to the premier. The total amount of the war credits now voted is $15,660,000,000.

BULGARIAN CAVALRY BADLY DEFEATED BY ADVANCE GUARD OF ENGLISH ARMY NEAR SERES
(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The British troops are advancing rapidly northwest of Seres, in Greek Macedonia. About two miles out from that village their advance guard came into contact with the Bulgarian cavalry. A hot encounter ensued. The troops engaged in this expedition are Bavarians. Germany is bitterly incensed against Roumania for entering the war on the side of the Allies and every effort is to be made to crush the Roumanians as Serbia was crushed.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The main committee of the Reichstag, after a long discussion of the motion of the Central party advocating a relentless submarine war on all ships without consideration of neutral interests, or the saving of life, resolved to bring up the whole question when the Reichstag meets again. The next public session of the Reichstag is set for today. The Social-Democrats are alone in their opposition to the policy of disregarding everything but German interests.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

TWO HUNDRED H. S. BOYS SIGN ATHLETIC QUALIFICATION CARDS

Pay your student body dues! This was the theme of an assembly held yesterday in which Mr. Howe explained that the dues of Glendale High school's student body were far below those of other schools, and the class presidents plead with their classes to be first with 100 per cent. in the contest this year. As usual, an electric score board in the hall will announce the standing of the classes until the dues stop coming in.

Mr. Moyses explained at length the workings of the student body, and expressed his belief that a new form of government is needed. He also pointed to the two vacancies in offices. The secretary elected last year is not in school now, and the president who was elected, Mr. Moyses declared, would not be permitted by him to serve. A bill to provide for these vacancies was introduced by Marion Lehman and passed. A constitutional amendment which, if adopted, will institute a commission form of government was also brought up for the first reading. Olin Wilson lead the school in "Glendale Bunch" in which the girls made a lot of noise. Adjournment followed, and the girls passed to their classes, while the boys remained for a meeting.

"Pep," "spirit," "animation" and "zest" all put together fail to describe this meeting of the boys. The first thing taken up was the serious matter of qualification cards. Mr. Howe, in a sincere talk which sank a long way into the heart of every fellow present, told why indulgers in cigarettes or intoxicants were barred from school activities. He said that no one was urged to sign a qualification card who did not desire to do so and above all not to sign one unless expecting to live up to the pledge contained thereon. When the signed cards were counted Mr. Howe expressed much satisfaction, for an even 200 cards had been turned in. The wording to these cards is as follows:

ATHLETIC QUALIFICATION CARD
Glendale Union High School
Action of High School Authorities
Regarding the Use of Cigarets and Liquor:

Resolved, By the Board of Education of the Glendale Union High school and the Principal and Faculty thereof, that as this school stands for the highest development in morals as well as physically and intellectually, it is herein determined that the future policy of this school be as follows, namely: No pupil of the Glendale Union High school who is known to indulge in the use of cigarettes or intoxicating liquor shall be allowed to represent this school in any athletic contest; and resolved, further, that it shall be with the utmost reluctance and only under the most extenuating circumstances that any pupil who indulges in the before-mentioned cigarettes or liquor shall be permitted to participate in any public function, either literary or otherwise, given under the auspices of this school.

I hereby certify, that under the provisions of the above resolution of the Board of Education of Glendale Union High School, I am eligible to represent this school in athletic contests, for I do not smoke cigarettes nor drink intoxicating liquor, and have not since signing the last Athletic Qualification card of the Glendale Union High school now on file with the school.

With this subject disposed of, athletics and school spirit were discussed in a lively manner. Mr. Moyses informed the fellows that new equipment had been purchased for their benefit this year, and that everything possible was being done to foster clean athletics. Mr. Ferguson denounced class antagonism, and declared that class spirit should lead up to and not surpass school spirit. Mr. Wight asked for a big turn out for basketball the first sport of the year, predicting a hard fight for the championship. Many class announcements were made by the various captains.

A grand get-together for all the fellows of the school was suggested by Ed Seay. The plan met with instant approval, and arrangements started at once. A need for some such activity has been felt almost since school started.

Mr. Joy expressed his view which seemed also to be the view of everyone present that more boys meetings should be held. And indeed this first one was a great success. School spirit should be on the upward path from now on.

The Seniors got licked. That describes in brief the last series of interclass tennis. The Sophomore team, composed of Wendell Beldin, Roscoe Puffer, Rolland Brown and

Mrs. Brady has been very fortunate in securing for this meeting Mrs. George W. Prince of Los Angeles whose husband was for eighteen years United States senator from Illinois. During her long residence in Washington, Mrs. Prince had the opportunity of becoming thoroughly familiar with all the features of the National society having been in Washington at the time of its formation twenty-five years ago. She will speak of the history of the organization, its objects and aims. All members of General Richard Gridley chapter are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this lady and each member is asked to bring a guest.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Lionel Martinez of Casa Verdugo, brother of Ernest Martinez, the well-known Spanish dancer, celebrated his eleventh birthday October 9. The celebration was held in the Red Room of the Casa Verdugo. The room was appropriately decorated with Halloween symbols: Jack o' lanterns, witches with and without broomsticks, black cats and other weird signs of the season adorned the walls and table. There was a fine birthday cake with eleven candles. The evening was spent in games, music, dancing and the guests enjoyed a thoroughly good time.

Those present were Robert Wilson, George Holman, Tom Gonzalez, Paul Boggs, Earl Boehme, William Heger, Harry Stadler, Lawrence Young, Kenneth Cousins, Ralph Eckles, Cedric Jaeger and James Wyman. Clothilde Magan, Virginia Holman, Dorothea Jaeger, Dolores Piper, Elizabeth Boggs, Doris Miles and Frances Wyman.

TO COMPLIMENT TEACHERS

Plans are maturing for the annual reception that is to be given the teachers of the public schools of Glendale at the High school next Tuesday evening. The affair is in charge of the president of the Parent-Teacher federation, Mrs. Hutchinson, and the presidents of the various associations. There will be an impromptu program, male quartet and other music and coffee and cake will be served. The public is invited to this reception.

RECEPTION AT TROPICO

Tropico Methodist Episcopal church was the scene of a most enthusiastic reception Tuesday night, when the congregation and friends met to welcome back to his parish the Rev. Don S. Ford, pastor of the church. The affair was held in the church and Mr. Ford was congratulated on all hands on having been re-appointed to Tropico where his ministry has been a great success.

Brief addresses of welcome were given by members of the Epworth league, the Junior league, the Ladies' Aid, the Woman's Home Missionary society and the Woman's Foreign Missionary society.

The Rev. Henry Goodsell, a retired Methodist clergyman, resident in Tropico, made the address of welcome on behalf of the Tropico church. In reply the Rev. Don S. Ford gave a stirring address urging church unity and a constant combined effort of all to increase the membership and build up the church.

Margaret Crawford sang "Little Fisher Maiden," the Rev. Dr. Henry sang "The Old Man Dreams." C. H. Muhleman presided at the Victrola and gave a fine selection of music. Refreshments were served.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday; light westerly winds.

Raymond Fansett was the victor. The Senior team, Howard McGillis, Filler Fischel, Olin Wilson and Irving Westwood was the goat. Out of the whole match the upper classmen failed to win a single point. A large crowd was on hand to witness the play.

Miss Knepper, Miss Poppy and Miss Church heard Sir Rabindranath Tagore, famous Hindu poet and winner of the Nobel prize for literature, who lectured at Trinity auditorium Tuesday evening. His subject was "The Cult of Nationalism."

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1916

LOYALTY TO CALIFORNIA

"Way back east" they have an idea that it is always hot enough in California "to fry eggs on the sidewalk" as some one has elegantly expressed himself. Quite a large percentage of people believe that California is an easy-going sunlit land, where "the grapes grow ripe under sunny skies," where it is always warm and where everybody takes a siesta at noon. Paraphrasing an old saying it is stated that California is where the good New Yorker goes when he dies. People in the east look forward to spending the close of their lives in this marvelous climate and as time goes on hope at least to be able in this favored spot to "husband out life's taper to the close and keep the flame from wasting by repose." With such ideas they come here and it speaks wonderfully for the climate, the soil and the people that none of them is ever disappointed.

Speaking at the luncheon, recently given by the Home Industry League of California, in honor of the newspaperwomen of the Bay Cities, Annie Laurie, the "star" woman writer of the Hearst papers, who has through those papers a reading clientele of more than 10,000,000 people for her editorials, spoke of California in terms of praise that are the more sincere because the lady does not need to flatter California by living in it. She has her pick of the states of America.

Annie Laurie has been round the world twice and has visited kings and queens and emperors. She knows the famous cities of the earth and yet she prefers California. Her position in the newspaper world gives inestimable weight to her words. She conveyed the idea to her hearers that she believed that the state has just reason to be proud of its people. Everywhere, she said, you find California people. They occupy the highest places in the American world. Six out of every ten people of prominence in New York are Californians. Of these six, four are residents of San Francisco.

Annie Laurie very tactfully told her Californian hosts that a real Californian appreciates traveling abroad mostly for the thought of how he or she will enjoy it when coming back to California to live.

"In many intelligent centers in the east," said the speaker, "they freely state that there is no natural green grass in California; that the birds never sing; that the fruit has no real flavor, while perfume is unknown to California flowers." That is the reverse of the picture and is what is said by those who are jealous of the exodus to California every year when perhaps they cannot go themselves.

It is certain that there is no state that has so many advantages as California. The prices of living here are much lower than in the east. Fruit, vegetables, meat, everything is higher there and the most ordinary California household can enjoy pineapples and grapes at prices that make them valuable additions to the menu. In some other countries a pineapple is a rarity and is considered quite an addition to a feast. It is said in joke that in England a single pineapple is hired for dinner parties and returned to the fruiterer at the close of the banquet.

California, in short, is the paradise of the states. It attracts yearly an increasing row of sightseers. Some of them return to stay; but most of all they advertise the state. That is what a state needs as much as anything else. It needs advertising. Los Angeles set a good example when it advertised itself in all the big cities of the world and in many European centers is now as well known as New York.

GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS

Greenland is probably familiar by name to most churchgoing people on account of its occurrence in the famous missionary hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains." The land itself is probably unfamiliar to most of them. Yet the other day the papers were all speaking of trading the rights of the United States in Greenland in consideration of the proposed purchase by this country of the Danish West Indies. That was somewhat misleading as the United States owns nothing of Greenland, which already belongs to Denmark; but did propose to give up whatever rights it might have in Greenland on account of the discoveries of Dr. Kane "the Arctic hero" and other Americans who explored the polar regions.

It is never safe to trade off easily lands that may appear at a distance to be unprofitable. In this way Russia sold Alaska for $7,000,000 and the United States was the one that profited. In similar fashion Lord Salisbury in a moment of aberration traded off the strategic island of Helgoland on the German coast, for a few square miles of African territory. Helgoland is now the strongest fortress in the world, unless Gibraltar is equally strong and is a constant thorn in the flesh of England. In similar fashion Greenland which has been so easily disposed of in the newspapers, is believed to contain valuable mineral deposits and to possess regions as rich in placer and quartz mines as Alaska itself.

In early days, about the time when Eric the Red made his famous voyage to the American coast and drifting over in the Icelandic current reached the coast of Newfoundland and sailed down the New England coast Greenland was really what its name infers—a "green land." Its climate was mild and inviting. Its chiefs had flocks and herds and abundance of everything. It was a land of great men and of great deeds. It had Christian convents and churches and was a land of some refinement and culture.

All this changed, however, when the warm currents that used to wash its shores ceased to visit there. It is now a land of ice and snow with a subarctic climate and vegetation, a brief hot summer and a long cold, and dark winter. Its coast is covered with glaciers.

The Danish government has assumed a patriarchal form in Greenland. The Danes have not allowed Greenland to be exploited by the casual outsider. The trade of the land is closed to outsiders. The Danish government alone permits itself to trade with the natives. It has an absolute overlordship over them. The government buys from the native Greenlanders the seal skins, walrus hides, white bear skins, oil, eiderdown and narwhal ivory and sells them supplies. From these transactions the Danish government profits to the extent of $1,000,000 annually.

As a matter of fact the United States has done nothing for the country and has had no share in its development or in the care of the natives. Whatever shadowy rights this country may profess to hold in Greenland might as well be given up as far as their present value is concerned without any quid pro quo in the shape of the Danish West Indies for which this country proposed to pay $25,000,000. At the same time if the United States has, as it seems she does have rights in Greenland it might be as well to hold on to them until the time when they can be disposed of at a remunerative price. There is no saying what they may be worth, judging by other Arctic experiences.

DIFFERENT WAYS BEING BUSY

There are different ways of being busy, says the Sunday School Times, and the busiest way of all is that which often looks least like business. It is sometimes derisively said that one is "busy doing nothing." But "doing nothing" may mean one thing to one kind of worker and another thing to another kind. "Your work is only head work," said the college whitewasher to the college professor, quite contemptuously. The locomotive engineer on the lookout for the fast express, with his hand on the throttle, may seem to the purely physical laborer, or to the purely intellectual toiler, to be "busy doing nothing." He calls no muscle into action, he evolves no abstract thought, no philosophy, no science. He appears to be enjoying the view from his cab window just about as idly and complacently as does the recreating tourist behind him whose very life is committed to the inactive hands of that engineer. The engineer to all appearance is "busy doing nothing." But the difference is that the tourist passenger is inert, while the engineer is alert. And this unbroken alertness, this sense of tremendous responsibility unfettered for one moment, is the busiest of all ways of being busy. Every muscle is ready, every nerve is tense. The whole man, physical, mental, moral, is exhaustingly engaged—albeit the whole man may outwardly seem to be "doing nothing." The hardest part of any one's business is that part of it which lives and dies within himself. The unceasing, unbroken alertness, the ever conscious responsibility for right action at the right time, is the busiest of all businesses, the first business of every business—of every life.

VOLTAGE SECURE

While the public eye and the attention of the security markets are so closely focused upon the possibilities of a country-wide railroad strike, the following quotation from a recent issue of the Electrical World is timely:

"Electric light and power utilities seldom have labor troubles to interrupt their highly necessary public service. Their position is in strong contrast to that of transportation companies, which at the present time are excessively burdened with difficulties. Fortunately for central station companies and for the industries and communities which rely upon their service, these properties, because of the nature of their physical plants, do not have to depend so largely upon organized labor as do the railways and other classes of industries. Although relying upon the loyalty of employees, they are able

"Another circumstance which contributes to the relative freedom of electrical utilities from labor complications is that their business is so stable that they provide regular employment for their men and generally avoid periods of shutdown or idleness which contribute to dissatisfaction and breed discontent in other industries. Employees get a distinct benefit from the fact that only rarely is their business subject to depression and that, on the contrary, the volume of it is usually maintained, if not increased, no matter what conditions prevail in the country at large."

Chrysanthemum Song, Mary Turner Salter.

To sing, and sing so well, songs which make their appeal to the heart is a gift, but a rarer one still is Miss Markell's gift of interpretation which opens the minds of her hearers to the beauty of the thoughts in her songs. Richardson closed the happy day with a report of the Biennial Convention of Woman's clubs, which she attended as the delegate of the Tuesday Afternoon club. Mrs. Richardson brought back many interesting souvenirs of her trip which she shared with the ladies and reported thoughts from addresses of interest to the various departments of the local club work.

The club, which at the luncheon was announced to have a roll of 272 members, was the pleased recipient of a beautifully carved redwood gavel, the gift of Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, 109 North Kenwood street.

The president's address and Mrs. Daugherty's welcome to the club will be published in full in tomorrow's Evening News.

THE BOOZE YELL FOR LIBERTY

(By Samuel Parker)

Liberty shriekers of today (doing duty for the wet interests) are close imitations of a too-numerous class during the late civil war, who were forever quoting the "constitution" as being "agin" the war for the union, in every movement made by the government for its protection. "You can't do (this or that) anything in fact, to coerce a state, or stop rebellion. So pronounced was this outcry that it began to be a mark for a disloyal and dangerous class, and one governor used it thus:

"When you hear a fellow yelling about the constitution spot him." While loyal "Bob" Ingersoll declared in a speech "these constitution shriekers wouldn't know it from a leather apron."

It may well be questioned if the booze orators, much in evidence today on the wet platform, or in wet papers (a few of which admit their paid articles) are best calculated to enlighten the California voter of today, on the true meaning of liberty, or the slavery of prohibition, albeit they confine all their arguments to the pending question of wet and dry, whereas it runs to every imaginable human interest for without the cardinal principle involved in all law, "you may" or "you shall not" (prohibition) there could be no organized society, no civilization in fact, and no order, but that associated with brute force "the stoutest arm and the heaviest club."

The Jefferson declaration in the immortal "bill of rights" that all men are born free and equal and possessing certain inalienable rights, to wit: "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" is the grandest of utterances, and yet a mere string of "glittering generalities" depending on conditions.

What is your life worth, in a land "where nothing dwells but beasts of prey—or men as wild and fierce as they." Not much, valuable and sweet to you to die in defending it only.

What is liberty to the man in prison. The sentiment possibly very dear to him, why he is there need not be discussed here.

What is the pursuit of happiness? Ask the degenerate Jesse Pomeroy, that criminal of awful memory in the east, whose happiness began in sticking pins through flies, to see them squirm, this led up to acts of cruelty, on higher forms of life, his greatest happiness culminating in the torture and murder of the little boy for which act he was executed.

Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness do not always pan out as shown and get all their vitality (beyond barbarism) from another paragraph of the bill of rights—where Jefferson says "to secure these rights (that is, life, liberty and pursuit of happiness) governments are formed among the people obtaining their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Right here comes in with full force the Jeffersonian conception of liberty which is "freedom regulated by law," and must not be tortured to mean to "do as you please," which is prostituting the term liberty to mean license.

And in that sense the wet orators are freely using it today and talk about the "liberty" the fathers fought for as being endangered by the prohibition or dry movement, when as a fact the whole prohibition machinery of the general government is wisely moved for the protection of the people, in about everything a citizen eats, drinks or wears. Cocoa, opium and drugs (unless properly prepared) are prohibited, all of which is known and approved by the general public and yet what a howl is raised about our "lost liberty" from the degenerate cohorts of booze.

These malevolent rantings of the orators for a lost cause disturb nobody in the dry column today, and the wets are wets for the love of the cause. Fight it out at the polls but fight fairly. "When the devil was well, devil a saint was he, but when the devil took sick, the devil a saint would be," and he is pretty sick at this time and readily takes to prayers and piety to bolster up the drink habit. In the days of Christ he proved himself a very good Bible scholar and his representatives today are full of the original cunning. Behold with what skill is quoted and tortured to fit the case, every passage alluding to the use of wine carefully coining an indorsement of Deity to fit the case and equally careful in avoiding instances of note where Deity denounced the accursed business. He (the devil) in this case never called attention to the original tribal prohibition society where the vow was made "We (family and tribe) will use no wine (drink) forever." God specially removed these people by saying "they shall never lack a man to stand before my face forever." Total abstinence and prohibition both indorsed. Daniel had a pretty good record for a tee-totaler also, but he and the "Rechabites" above mentioned, escaped the notice of the very apt observer for scripture promises on the wet side. The sick saint adds insult to injury by denouncing as hypocrites and deceivers every minister and church member in this contest, declaring that the propositions were constructed dishonestly, with intent to deceive the honest wet voter. Such wholesale slander and misrepresentation would call for resentment were it not that it emanates from a source beside which the kiss of Judas was absolute honesty.

THE COMING ELECTION

To the Editor of The News—In a recent issue of the North American of Philadelphia, one of the ablest independent dailies of the east—is an article by Leigh Mitchell Hodges. Under the heading "The Optimist" he is a frequent contributor and the readers of the North American look forward with eagerness to his valuable and inspiring messages. This one relates to the coming election and starts out with these interesting paragraphs: "Now is the year and the time of the year when all of our men and several million of our women—many of these latter for the first time—are thinking how they will vote five weeks from today. A number of the men will vote the way their fathers and grandfathers voted, regardless of the names on the tickets or the changes that have come to pass in half a century. These are the partisans who stick to a party just as fleas stick to a dog in summer. * * * At best they are blind guides and blind guides are not safe to follow. Another group will let preconceived notions or prejudice largely determine their votes. "I am a Republican," says one, "hence my vote will go for Hughes." "I am a Democrat," says another, "so I shall vote for Wilson." What a sensation would be caused by thousands of Republicans or Democrats coming out in statements each saying "I am interested in the welfare of my fellow-countrymen and despite my long adherence to a certain party I am going to vote for the opposing candidate because I think he is best fitted to do the things that we need done at this time. * * * Yet the man who would do such a thing is the only sort of citizen worth while. * * * What we need in this country is a host of about 5,000,000 voters whose votes will be cast in strict accord with conscience guided only by their best judgment as to the ability of the candidates to administer justice and act as disinterested individuals whose sole aim is the common welfare. When we get such an army we will begin to build a system of government that cannot fail." These are brave words and should appeal to arouse many patriotic voters of both sexes. Undoubtedly unbeknown to this writer from Philadelphia there is a movement on foot to organize 5,000,000 voters to wage relentless warfare on the greatest enemy that has ever threatened our existence. Their pledge is as follows: "Recognizing the liquor traffic as the dominant issue in American politics I hereby declare my intention to register and vote only for such parties as declare for national prohibition." This movement has the endorsement of leading men throughout the country, men prominent in the affairs of life. This movement was started about two years ago and an effort was made to get a plank for national prohibition in the different party platforms of this year but the enemy of our country was too powerful and the efforts met with failure except in the case of one party, the national prohibition party. Nominating two capable and aggressive men, for president, Frank Hanley, ex-governor of Indiana; for vice president, Ira Landrith of Nashville, Tenn.

National figures in philanthropic and educational work they are conducting a remarkable campaign throughout the breadth and length of our land. Briefly stated this party is entitled to support at the polls—the only kind of support that counts—for the following reasons: First, it has the moral courage to oppose a heartless corporation, powerful in money, influential in votes, unscrupulous in attack. Both old parties cringe before it. Second, it is a party designed and assembled to accomplish this job. Has an object in view—a patriotic purpose and does not strive merely to capture the spoils of office. Third, the only non-sectional party in the field. Its triumph will unite the common foes of our country north and south, east and west, and obliterate—eliminate—the sectionalism engendered by the war. Fourth, it is a progressive party, first in the field to advocate equal suffrage, irrespective of sex, a scientific tariff commission, direct election of United States senators. Is the only progressive party at present. See its national platform. Fifth, stands for conservation of streams, of forests, of mines and best of all, mankind. Sixth, real preparedness. A sober nation means prosperity in times of peace and better fighters in time of war. The drink bill of 1913 ($2,400,000,000) would build six Panama canals at cost of $375,000,000 each and fifteen dreadnaught battleships at $10,000,000 each. In conclusion the prohibition party has no quarrel with either one of the dominant parties or candidates. Mr. Hughes is a man of character and accomplishments in spite of his absent mindedness when he forgot to vote for six years in general elections or to register or vote for the equal suffrage amendment in New York, or to say a single helpful word for the dry amendments in his recent tour of our state from north to south. President Wilson is also a man of high purpose, sincerity of effort, rare courage. But neither he or his able opponent will utter a word of opposition to the liquor traffic throughout the entire campaign. They are not expected to. They represent the license parties, the principle of government partnership in and with the liquor business. This is not a criticism but a mere statement of fact. How then can men and women who favor prohibition for state and nation assist in this great conflict? "This irrepressible conflict?" First, vote for those splendid life size candidates Hanly and Landrith. Large men physically, mentally, morally, earnest, capable, consecrated men. Another plan is to pair for prohibition. A Republican who believes in prohibition (and there are lots of them) but who would not like to deprive his old party candidate of his vote finds a Democrat who feels the same way. Mr. Democrat agrees that he will cast his vote for the prohibition candidates this year if Mr. Republican will do the same. The net result to either party will be unchanged but the cause of prohibition has been materially advanced and emphasized as ballots alone can do.

SPORTS IN JAPAN

Ichiya Kumagae, an expert tennis player of Japan, who has been visiting in this country with Hachishiro Mikami, another star player, points out some contrasts between the way of looking at sports in Japan and America. He says:

"We play for sport's sake only in Japan. We do not have the professional. There are professional wrestlers, but they belong to a special class. We do not charge admission to tennis or baseball games. In the big contests between Keio and Waseda universities, no admission is charged to any games except when an American team comes over and we have to provide the money to help pay their expenses.

"Often 3000 or 4000 spectators come to witness tennis matches between the rival universities. There is cheering and yelling of a nature as loud and enthusiastic as one hears at baseball or football games in the United States. As between baseball and tennis in Japan, I cannot say which is the more popular, as both are in high favor. Boys play tennis in Japan far more than girls but there is no bar to girls playing, although we do not have mixed doubles.

A DISCIPLE OF ST. COLUMBAN

St. Gall was born in Ireland (probably about 550. He was a disciple of St. Columban and was one of the twelve disciples who journeyed with that intrepid missionary to France. Their arrival is said to have been about 585, and they found the country in need of their ministrations. Though France was nominally Christian, the church was not influencing the lives of the people as it should, and the earnest preaching of the little band made a strong impression. Columban remained in France about twenty years.

A CENTER OF LEARNING

The history of the monastery of St. Gall is an interesting one. It was in early days, a great center of learning. In the ninth century the first catalog of the library was made, showing that even then it had some 400 books. For a thousand years it played an important role in the history of learning, commemorating the name of its founder, St. Gall.

Whine or howl,
Good old earth

BEING UP-TO-DATE

If you wish to promote your own progress, you must keep in touch with the spirit of progress in all fields of action and achievement. If you are interested only in the metaphysical side of life and action, you will fail to apply yourself in practical action. Thus you may know much but accomplish little. If you are interested only in the physical side of life and action, you will not be in touch with the best ideas in your own world, and you will have only the lesser things to apply in your work.

The easiest way is not always the best way. It is usually the hardest way which brings out the best that is in us, and which produces the greatest results. But the hardest way is not hard to those who feel themselves greater than any fate.

TROPICO TRUSTEES

The trustees of the city of Tropico met in regular session Tuesday evening at 7:30 with President Peters in the chair, Trustees Alspach, Henry and Seal present, Boyce absent. Officers Coleman, Shaw, Wattles, Mabry and Gould were also present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from the L. A. Gas Co., stating that they would comply with the wishes of the board and lay their gas mains in Acacia street before that street is paved.

A communication was received from Walter A. Lewis, county auditor in regard to the fees collected for delinquent taxes and also penalties collected, stating that all the taxes which were collected by the county for the different municipalities, both current and delinquent are turned over to the municipality for which they were collected but it had long been the custom of the auditor to turn over to the county general fund all fees and penalties on delinquent taxes collected. However, this matter was to be taken up by the county attorney and county council for consideration and a ruling will be made in a few days.

A statement was filed with the board from the Pacific Light & Power Co., setting forth the improvements made during the month of September for the betterment of their service in Tropico.

Fire Chief Gould stated that a permit was asked for a building at the Jap gardens on West Tropico. The fact developed that an up-and-down board shack had already been built and was being used as a fruit and vegetable stand by the Japs. After considerable discussion by the board and spectators the permit was denied.

Mary H. Baldwin and Lelah Larson filed an appeal with the board on their street assessment for the improvement of Moore and Adams streets, stating that said assessments were exorbitant and not in accordance with a previous contract made between Mrs. Larson and the city when certain property was deeded by Miss Larson to the city for street purposes. A resolution was passed fixing October 17 as the date for said hearing.

The city attorney reported that he had investigated the matter of the opening and improving of Columbus avenue and that the board had a right to proceed with the opening of said street but for further improvements it would be necessary to have the necessary petitioners for the improvement.

Mr. Todd spoke in regard to the proposed improvement stating that the owners of ninety per cent. of the frontage on Columbus avenue were opposed to the improvement being made at this time.

Mrs. Gertrude Gibbs filed her bond with the board for the faithful performance of the contract for the public printing for the city for one year in the sum of $500. The bond was approved and the president of the board and the city clerk were authorized to sign the printing contract.

The president and city clerk were authorized to enter into a contract with the Pacific Light & Power Co., for the street lighting of Tropico. The following rates were embodied in the contract: 5 1/2 cents per kilowatt hour with a minimum of $75 per month.

The matter of pruning the trees in the parkways of the city came up for discussion and on the advice of Horticultural Commissioner Flury, who addressed the board, the board decided to have the trees pruned under their supervision.

W. O. Hood and M. B. Hood made application for a taxicab permit, both permits being granted.

The following claims were allowed and ordered paid:

C. K. Lake	$ 2.50
J. W. Gould	3.10
Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co.	1.35
Title Guarantee & Trust Co.	15.73

THE GLAD SINGER

(James Whitcomb Riley)
By Charles Coke Woods
Glad singer of the laughing streams,
And weaver of the music dreams,
Lover of the children fair,
And of God's sweet, open air,
Let the golden Gates unroll
To receive thy singing soul.

Who will catch the mystic strain
Of the music in the rain;
Of the winds among the grass,
Softly singing as they pass?
Scarce can we thy music spare,
Singer of God's open air.

Who will catch the music now
Of the farmer at the plow,
And the mother of the home,
Lullabying in the gloom?
Stay, sweet singer, with thy cheers—
These are sad and sobbing years.

Who will lift thy fallen lyre,
Gladdest singer of the choir?
If across our dust and dew
God sends one as sweet as you,
We shall give him love's acclaim,
Crown him with a fadeless fame.
—From Central Christian Advocate.

"Are you in favor of an eight-hour working day?" "I don't go so strong as that," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "If my boy, Josh, was to work three hours a day in succession, I'd think he was a doin' purty good."—Washington Star.

The forest service in California is co-operating with the University of California in the study of mill waste in the redwood belt that might be used in the manufacture of grain alcohol.

Artificial silk manufactured from wood pulp for which several kinds of California timber are suitable is used annually in this country to the amount of seven billion pounds. It is utilized principally in the manufacture of millinery, sweaters and hosiery.

Investigations made by the forest service of the wooden piling in wharves about San Francisco bay have disclosed the fact that the damage done this season by the destructive pile borer, teredo, is apparently much less than usual.

The relative durability of California commercial timber is being experimented upon at the forest service laboratory, Madison, Wis., in rotting pits. These pits, constructed of cement, are kept in a condition of temperature and humidity most favorable for the development of wood destroying fungi, of which cultures are introduced.
